Driving Growth in Food Processing, Packaging & Agriculture

Over the years, the food processing, packaging, and agriculture sectors have expanded significantly, driven by emerging markets and rapid technological advancements. This growth has widened the industry's scope, creating numerous business opportunities across its diverse segments. Despite this progress, much of the industry's potential remains largely untapped.

Expanding markets and increasing demand highlight the need to fully harness opportunities in cultivation, production, processing, and packaging of food and beverages. This calls for enhanced incentives and a supportive, investment-friendly environment that encourages innovation, value addition, and export growth. The Profood Propack & Agbiz Exhibition provides a dynamic platform to support the growth of Sri Lanka's agriculture, food processing, and packaging industries. Since its inception nearly two decades ago, the exhibition has played a vital role in strengthening the sector by creating extensive opportunities for product exposure, business networking, and market expansion-both locally and internationally. Now in its 23rd Edition, Profood Propack & Agbiz has emerged as the most anticipated and influential event on the industry calendar, bringing together industry leaders, innovators, solution providers, and key decision-makers under one roof.
